

GOOD COURAGE.

Miss Willard has returned from St. Louis in the condition of the old maid who sent out his hat among the congregation for contributions, and receiving it back empty, gave thanks that he was still permitted to remain in the hat. Some weeks ago Miss Willard formed the plan of amalgamating the Prohibitionists, the Women Suffragists, the Labor Unionists, the Farmers' Alliance and all the other isms who might be hanging around loose, in a grand party for the purpose of electing the President of the United States. She got her various elements together in Chicago, and although there was some discord, an ostensible agreement for harmony was reached. Full of hope, therefore, she went with Lady Somerset to the S. Louis convention, where the organization of the aggregation was to be completed. They were very kind to Miss Willard at St. Louis—personally. They made her Vice-President and put her on the Platform Committee. At the end, however, they adopted the idea of every theorist present except the idea of Miss Willard and Lady Somerset. They defeated prohibition and ignored woman suffrage. There is something glorious though in the way in which Miss Willard is now imitating the genial Tapley: "I am far from discouraged," she says. "What- ever ventilates this question is like the hay fork which throws the mown grass into the air to get the sunlight."—Chicago Herald.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Bill Nye says there is something wrong with the fellow that takes a newspaper and when he is asked to pay for it, puts it back in the office marked "refused." When a man wants his paper stopped he ought to pay up and inform the editor that his paper is no longer wanted.

The San Francisco Press Club decided to remain out of the International League after an animated discussion. A resolution was adopted, however declaring that the withdrawal was not intended as a reflection on Mr. de Young, who is President of the league. The club, therefore, still remains out of the league.

It is now ascertained that J. W. Collins, the San Diego Bank President who suicided last week, and was under suspicion of embezzlement, has assigned his life insurance of $85,000 for the benefit of the creditors of the bank. This was the last dollar's worth of property he had to turn over. This was certainly a most unusual and honorable act.

According to the new railroad regulations in Russia a surgeon is to be placed on every passenger train. Every railroad line will have to keep in its employ as many surgeons as it has passenger trains running, and two physicians at the principal station to provide for extra trains. To every passenger train a hospital car is to be attached supplied with borths and surgical instruments to be used in accident on the road.

A young Grass Valley girl named Purdy has been arrested at Nevada City on a serious charge. It seems that she was given a letter at the Postoffice for Peter Purden, by mistake. On opening the epistle she discovered that it was not for her or any member of the family, but instead of writing on the envelope "opened by mistake," and returning the letter, as she was advised to do, Miss Purdy tore the epistle into bits and threw the fragments away.—Gazette.

Wurtemberg's King almost got into trouble a few days ago. He, like the Kaiser is an indifferent whip and while entering the Stuttgart Schloss the King nearly drove over a young American girl. She, however, with that sanfroid characteristic of the fair daughters of the West, caught the horses heads and pushing them back told the King in pretty strong Anglo Saxon and German intermixed, what she thought of him. His Majesty, who was entirely a fault, jumped down and tendered his most profuse apologies. The young lady was unaware that she had had the gratification of bullying a king until she received the following day a letter from one of his Majesty's chamberlains, begging her acceptance of the royal photograph as a souvenir, he said, of his clumsiness and her escape.—Brandon Buckshaw.
